

Fact Sheet

Marina Bay Sands Theaters

Marina Bay Sands is home to two world-class theaters specifically designed to showcase internationally acclaimed performances for the ultimate guest experience.

The Sands Theater and The Grand Theater located adjacent to each other share a box office and spectacular grand foyer created to transport all our guests to a world of glitz and glamour. Both theaters boast magnificent interior design with high ceilings, extravagant layout and plush furnishing aimed at creating a night of elegance.

The Sands Theater opened on 30 November 2010 with Riverdance, the spectacular performance that has entertained millions world-side. The Sands Theater was home to award-winning Broadway musical The Lion King from March to October 2011, making it the most successful Broadway show in Singapore. The theater has the capacity to host up to 1,680 guests on two levels.

The Grand Theater launched on 7 March 2011 with performances by the legendary Elvis Costello. It can stage a wide-range of headlining acts, performing arts and gala events, seating up to 2,155 guests over three levels.

Theater Design

Both Marina Bay Sands theaters have been carefully designed for exhilarating performances. The two theaters are traditional proscenium style venues, equipped with large orchestra pits, seat wagons and trap rooms. Each theater boasts the latest technology allowing a multitude of stage configurations and an efficient and seamless set-change for all theater performances.

Sophisticated Technology

Both theaters' audio and visual technical requirements will be managed from the Central Control Room – the heart and brain of the theaters. The Central Control Room is where the technician can interface with the latest audio and video technology allowing them to set and operate the stages for world-class acts. The audio systems for the two theaters are custom-designed to allow the highest quality sound. Strategically positioned surround sound speakers equipped with remote controlled lasers will ensure optimal sound throughout each venue.
